

EPM's CEO remains in office and will appeal the ruling on his appointment

EPM inform public opinion:

The Company received this Wednesday, October 13, the notification from the Fourth Orality Chamber of the Administrative Court of Antioquia, in which the nullity of the appointment of the CEO of EPM, Jorge Andrés Carrillo Cardoso, is declared in the first instance.

Despite this first instance ruling, the CEO continues in his functions. The Company maintains its dynamics and normality in all its operations and services.

EPM is respectful of the decisions of the authorities. However, it will contest this decision of first instance of the Administrative Court of Antioquia before the Council of State, as appropriate.

The Administration will be attentive to the occurrence of the second instance ruling by the Council of State, to proceed in accordance with what that highest judicial body of contentious-administrative justice must resolve.
