

EPM was recognized by the General Accounting Office for its contribution to the development of the National System of Public Accounting in Colombia

The award was presented during the celebration of the 20th anniversary of the Accounting Office at a special event that took place in Bogota on Tuesday

On Tuesday, July 19, EPM received recognition and exaltation from the General Accounting Office (CGN), for “its management, labor, implementation and enforcement of public accounting regulation issued by the General Accounting Office, as well as for its input, contributions and strengthening of the public accounting culture in the country,” said the organization.

The award was presented during an academic event organized by the Accounting Office and the University of the Andes to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the creation of the General Accounting Office.

During his award speech, Carlos Mario Tobón Osorio, EPM’s Accounting Manager—who received the award on behalf of EPM--said that “the company is committed to all regulatory changes that are being implemented in Colombia, including the adoption of the International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) which EPM has championed and pioneered in the country.”

At the ceremony, which was attended by Accountant General Pedro Luis Ramirez Bohórquez, the Municipality of Medellin and other entities were recognized in addition to EPM.

This recognition is for “the work of public bodies that have contributed to the strengthening of the public accounting culture as good governance practice through their management, application of accounting regulation and input to the CGN,” the Accountant General said in the resolution.

The mandate of the General Accounting Office’s Special Administrative Unit--attached to the Ministry of Finance and Public Credit--includes “determining the policies, principles and accounting standards that should govern the country for the entire public sector.”
