EPM reports

That although it was planned to enter into operation with the first generation unit of the Ituango hydroelectric project in late 2021, the issues associated with COVID-19 have moved the schedules and most likely the first 4 generation units will come into operation during the year 2022.

EPM expects to meet its firm energy obligations, associated with the reliability charge within the deadlines established by regulation.

Likewise, the total progress of the work is 77.8%.
