Open letter to public opinion

In view of the announcement made by the Mayor of Medellín and Chairman of the Board of EPM, Daniel Quintero Calle, of the new members of the Company's highest management body, I wish to welcome them to the Organization, highlighting their cross-disciplinary knowledge, which will enable us to make the best decisions in favor of the people, and to reiterate my unbreakable commitment to the citizens and to EPM employees and contractors.

I also wish to reiterate my gratitude and appreciation for the outgoing Board members for all the services they have rendered and for their contributions over the period during which they participated in this collegiate body.

The strengthening of Corporate Governance, the fulfillment of the Framework Agreement on Relations between the Municipality of Medellín and EPM, the respect our Board's independence, the management and fulfillment of its guidelines and orientation, and the preservation of the trust of the financial market and investors are commitments I have taken on with determination ever since I took office, guided by the founding principles of EPM 65 years ago and our tradition of technical, legal, financial and administrative rigor.

Yours truly,

estamos ahí.

Álvaro Guillermo Rendón López
